9:45AM: Find Your KM Peers – An interactive networking game.

iKMS is encouraging the establishment of peer mentoring relationships amongst our members as part of a broader strategy to develop stronger peer to peer relationships and skills development in the KM arena. This session has been designed as a first step forging those relationships. In this interactive session, you will be provided with a template of questions from which to interact with your fellow society members. The intent is to get to know the KM work and professional challenges of at least four community members and to begin to identify peers within the iKMS community with whom you may have common growth challenges. These may potentially become a support network to help you grow your career in KM. This activity promises to be social and help you begin to build important connections for your own personal growth.

About our Opening Address Speaker:

John performs all types of magic: from children's shows to corporate magic, from magic with a touch of comedy to serious magic of the human mind. His magic has a high content of interaction with the spectators. His forte in magic is his ability to design and customize tricks to suit the occasion of the performance. Some of the projects in this area included:

- Specially designed magic to teach the Ronald McDonalds on how to use magic to deliver messages on good characters for children, in a regional conference in Malaysia for the McDonalds Asia Pacific.

The creativity of John in magic is evident in his being the only Asian to win magic competitions, once in 1979 organized by Sterling Magic Creations of USA, and once in 2007 organised by Magic Broadcast of USA.
